This schedule is used for reporting all direct contributions. You must keep a record of all contributors, but for this report you may combine all contributions of $100 or less from individuals and the same from political parties and enter these sums as unitemized contributions on their respective lines below and on the next page. Any contribution of more than $100 or aggregate during a calendar year from an individual or political party and all contributions from PAC's must be entered as a separate item (itemized) giving the amount, name, address and place of employment (if applicable) of the contributor. Each type of contributor has their own section for itemization. This schedule may be duplicated if you need more space, or you may attach additional sheets of paper.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions. It emphasizes that proper record-keeping is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also notes that records should be kept for a sufficient period of time to allow for a thorough review in the event of an audit or investigation.

2. The second part of the document outlines the specific requirements for record-keeping. It states that all transactions must be recorded in a clear and concise manner, and that the records must be kept in a secure and accessible location. The document also requires that records be kept for a minimum of five years, and that they be made available to the appropriate authorities upon request.

3. The third part of the document discusses the role of the auditor in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that the auditor must conduct a thorough review of the records and must report any discrepancies or irregularities to the appropriate authorities. The document also requires that the auditor maintain a separate record of all findings and conclusions.

4. The fourth part of the document discusses the consequences of failing to comply with the record-keeping requirements. It states that any individual or organization that fails to maintain accurate records may be subject to fines, penalties, or other legal action. The document also notes that failure to comply with the requirements may result in the loss of the organization's right to participate in certain programs or activities.

5. The fifth part of the document discusses the importance of training and education in ensuring compliance with the record-keeping requirements. It states that all individuals involved in the financial system must receive appropriate training and education to ensure that they are able to maintain accurate records and to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that training and education be provided on a regular basis.

6. The sixth part of the document discusses the importance of internal controls in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that internal controls are essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that internal controls be designed and implemented in a way that ensures the accuracy of the records.

7. The seventh part of the document discusses the importance of external controls in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that external controls are essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that external controls be designed and implemented in a way that ensures the accuracy of the records.

8. The eighth part of the document discusses the importance of transparency in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that transparency is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that all transactions be recorded in a transparent and accessible manner.

9. The ninth part of the document discusses the importance of accountability in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that accountability is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that all individuals involved in the financial system be held accountable for their actions.

10. The tenth part of the document discusses the importance of continuous improvement in ensuring the accuracy of the records. It states that continuous improvement is essential for the integrity of the financial system and for the ability to detect and prevent fraud. The document also requires that the record-keeping process be reviewed and improved on a regular basis.
